

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

ESI Group Hires Experienced Regional Manager for Food Processing in the Midwest

HARTLAND, Wis. (August 16, 2011) – ESI Group, a nationwide full-service engineering and construction firm, recently hired Jack Michler to service the Midwest area. Jack comes to ESI with 30 plus years of construction experience with an emphasis in food processing, food safety and low temperature facilities.

Michler's work experience includes dairy-red meat-produce and frozen food processing, distribution centers, industrial parks, commercial construction, high rise buildings and institutional projects. He previously worked for contractors such as Wheatley-Jacobsen and Miron Construction.

President Brad Barke of ESI states, "We are pleased to have Jack as part of the ESI team. His previous contacts and industry knowledge will enable him to continue to expand ESI's brand within the foodservice industry."

# #

About ESI Group USA (ESI)

ESI is a full service Engineering and Construction firm specializing in quality design-build services for the food industry. ESI provides services for new construction, expansion, and renovation projects nationwide with offices in the Midwest, and on the East and West coasts. We specialize in the design, engineering, and construction of warehouses, distribution centers, and foodservice facilities, particularly in controlled temperature structures.

Our experience and knowledge enables our firm to provide you a Guaranteed Maximum Price with minimal design. Our Single Source Responsibility Approach will respond to your company's need for cost-effective, functional facilities, consistent with your time requirements.

For Media Relations:
Michele Loppnow
(262) 369-3535
mloppnow@esigroupusa.com
www.esigroupusa.com

---end---